Opening Keynote

Driving the Future: How Emerging Technologies Are Shaping Tomorrow's World

What does the future look like? Alex Salkever has been thinking and writing about this for two decades, covering AI and ChatGPT, green energy, genetic engineering, cloud computing self-driving cars and more. A former BusinessWeek editor, he is the author of four award-winning books examining the impact of technology on society and our well-being, including “The Driver in the Driverless Car: How Our Technology Choices Will Create the Future” and “Your Happiness Was Hacked.” Salkever has worked as a senior technology executive for multiple technology companies in Silicon Valley and contributes articles to leading publications, including Fortune, Marketwatch, CNBC and Foreign Affairs.

General Session

Connecting the Dots: Federal and Local Perspective in Design-Build

As the design-build industry unites against the backdrop of our nation's capital and Bipartisan Infrastructure funding set to expire in less than two years, this session will focus on the vital relationship between federal and local as it relates to design-build delivery. Bringing together perspectives from the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), the U.S. Department of Transportation (USDOT) and others, we will examine how federal and local entities can coalesce, identifying synergies to promote collaboration and maximize the impact of BIL funding. Gain valuable insights into best practices, funding strategies and communication techniques that can lead to more effective project delivery and stronger community partnerships.

Wednesday, March 19

8:00–9:30AM

General Session

From Blueprint to Recovery: The Design-Build Advantage for Emergent Project Delivery

In emergency situations, the urgency for timely and effective project delivery is critical. This session will explore the unique ways design-build is positioned to tackle emergency response projects. As infrastructure ages, increased failures are creating a growing need for emergent project delivery. Design-build, with its unique ability to streamline processes, foster collaboration, engage stakeholders and maintain flexibility, is becoming the go-to delivery method to swiftly address this niche. Using the recent Baltimore Key Bridge tragedy as an example, we will examine how design-build facilitates rapid responses while engaging communities in crafting tailored solutions. Learn how integrated teams navigate challenges to meet immediate infrastructure needs and foster long-term resilience. Join us to discover how design-build practices enhance emergency response efforts and support community recovery.

Economic Briefing with Andy Busch

Andy Busch is an economic futurist and former Chief Market Intelligence Officer for the U.S. government at the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC). At the CFTC, he was charged with improving and enhancing the government's understanding of the markets and the economy. He provided economic and market briefings to the White House, Congress, the SEC, the Federal Reserve Board and the U.S. Treasury staff on a wide range of issues, including extreme market volatility, China's influence on trade and the impact of technology on the economy. Today, he's a consultant and keynoter with a wide range of clients including financial services, energy, manufacturing and construction.

General Session

The Design-Build Match Game: Aligning for Success

In today's evolving design-build landscape, Owners have found themselves in the hot seat, facing new challenges and expectations to cultivate attractive projects. As design-builders adapt to this shift, the emphasis on identifying "Owners of Choice" has become paramount for successful project pursuit. Join us as we parody the classic Match Game, exploring how this shift is reshaping the dynamics of collaboration.

This engaging session will feature a panel of design-build Owners as they attempt to match their insights with our design-builder contestants and audience responses. Join us as we continue to explore what it means to be an Owner of Choice, including common areas of alignment, opportunities for growth and the critical components of effective partnerships.

Friday, March 21

10:30–11:45AM

Closing General Session

Current Update of BABA Requirements in Design-Build Projects

The Build America Buy America Act (BABA), included in the IIJA, states "none of the funds made available for a Federal financial assistance program for infrastructure... may be obligated for a project unless all of the iron, steel, manufactured products and construction materials used in the project are produced in the United States." In this panel discussion, EPA's Office of Water Domestic Preference Implementation team will provide practical guidance to ensure compliance with these standards for its SRF, WIFIA and other OW programs. Hear examples of how design-build delivery and supply chain volatility can be affected by these requirements from the viewpoints of an Owner and contractor who have had to work within the requirements of the act.
